

Plains Game Hunting Safaris

Written by Administrator

Friday, 25 September 2009 09:26 - Last Updated Friday, 09 October 2009 14:41

South Africa and Southern Africa are blessed with a great diversity of plains game species which can be hunted in a range of different ecological areas. The areas differ greatly in terms of topography and vegetation and can range from densely wooded savannah to open grassland. Each area presents a unique habitat, which is ideally suited to certain of the plains game species.

